Battling: 20-year-old, Madison

This young newlywed and mom to 3-year-old Travis, was surprised to hear that she had been diagnosed with Ewing Sarcoma back in March of 2014. The ongoing process of battling her cancer hasn't been easy on their little family to say the least. They have struggled with late night trips to the ER, surgeries, non-stop vomiting, a chemo bag around the clock for weeks at a time. She has endured five different types of chemo; all of which have failed her.

Finally, Madison found a surgeon at Baylor who is going to attempt to remove the tumors in her chest this December. With her biological parents out of the picture, she is being cared for by her in-laws whose aid has included giving Madison shots in her stomach and draining fluid out of her lung. Her husband, Austin (21), sister, Ashley, and her in-laws love Madison unconditionally and are devoted to her recovery and treatment.

This year we join together to help this family have a wonderful Christmas!
